Coat of Arms

"Corbin"

Arms: Argent, on a chief or, three ravens sable.

Crest: On a crown or, a raven wings elevated proper.

Motto: PROBITAS VERUS HONOS. (Honesty is true honour.)

The family name of CORBIN is English, French, and Irish in origin. The name is derived from one who was a dweller at the sign of the raven; descendant of Coirbin(little chariot).

Variant spellings are: Corbyn and Corban.

Traditional meanings of heraldic colors: Argent(white or silver) - peace, serenity; Or(yellow or gold) - valor; Sable(black) - repentance.

Traditional meanings of heraldic charges: Raven(also known as corbie, corby-crow, corbyn, corf) - appears on arms for the sake of the play upon the name; Crown - victory.

Heralds College, a royal corporation in England, was instituted in 1483 and occupied chiefly with armorial bearings.

On March 24th, 1574, George Corbin witnessed a deed between Thomas Corbyn and Thomas Warings. Thomas Corbyn used a seal displaying his shield "in chief, three ravnes". Records are in possession of the Earl of Beauchamp, in England.

In a letter dated 1618, Francis Corbin states: "Our family is of French extraction and went from Normandy with William the conqueror and was established at Worcesteshire on a large estate. I was intimately associated with Mr. Fox in England. Between this nobleman's family, General Washington's and my own, there existed and interwoven connection before the two latter emigrated to Virginia. If the subject was not too long, I could go on with heraldic proof that half or more of the British peers are novi homines compared to ourselves."

Family History

THE DANISH VIKINGS

The Danish Vikings raided England, France, Spain, and areas along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea. Their travels covered most of western Europe.

The Vikings who occupied and gave their name to Normandy in northern France were mostly Danes. Rollo, or Hrolf, led the Vikings in a long and bitter struggle with Charles the Simple, King of West Franks. King Charles could not drive the invaders out, and they could not gain ground against the Franks. In 911 the invaders and the invaded reached an agreement. King Charles recognized Rollo as duke of Normandy. Rollo became a Christian, and pledged his loyalty to the king. He also agreed to defend Normandy and help repel future invaders. The Danes of Normandy kept in touch with their homeland for a long time. Scandinavian influences still remain, particularly in the names of places and even in the clothes and customs of the Norman people.

The Normans were a group of Vikings or Norsemen (Scandinavians), who first settled in France, then spread into England, southern Italy, and Sicily. In the 800's Norman warriors began their conquests by raiding French coasts and river valleys. By the early 900's, they had colonized the French territory near the mouth of the Seine River that is now known as Normandy. In 911 the Norman chief Hrolf, or Rollo (860? - 931?), became a duke in the service of the Frankish king, Charles the Simple. The Normans became Christians and adopted French customs. Many of the Normans became famous as administrators, church leaders and crusaders.

In 1066, Norman warriors under the leadership of Duke William successfully conquered England, and the Norman influence spread throughout the British Isles.

Normandy is a region in Northwestern France. It was named after the Norsemen who conquered the area in the 800's. It lies along the English Channel coast between the regions of Picardy and Brittany. The famous towns of Normandy include Rouen, the capital of the old province, Le Havre, Harfleur, Caen, Bayeux, and Cherbourg.

In A.D. 911, the Carolingian king, Charles the Simple, made Normandy a duchy under the Norman chieftain Hrolf, or Rollo. One of Rollo's most famous descendants was William the conqueror, who won the English crown after the Battle of Hastings in 1066. Normandy was united with England during the reign of the English king, Henry I (1100 - 1135). England and France struggled for control of Normandy during the Hundred Years War. The English recovered the region twice, but finally lost it in 1449 to Charles VII, king of France. Joan of Arc became famous as the leader of French troops in the fight for Normandy.

WILLIAM I, THE CONQUEROR

William I, the Conqueror (1027? - 1087), was the first Norman King of England. He was born at Falaise, France. He was the son of Robert I, duke of Normandy and inherited Normandy at about the age of 8 in 1035. During his youth, there were many disorders. In 1047, William put down a great rebellion at the battle of Vales-dunes, which he won with the aid of his lord, King Henry of France. From that time on, William ruled Normandy with an iron hand.

In 1051, King Edward, the Confessor of England, promised William succession to the English throne as his nearest adult heir. Edward probably sent the promise to William through an English archbishop who passed through Normandy on his way to Rome. In 1064, Edward's brother-in-law, Harold, was shipwrecked on the Norman coast and taken prisoner. Harold promised to support William's claim to the throne in return for freedom. But Harold won the throne through a deathbed grant by Edward and election by the nobles.

William immediately invaded England. His expedition had the pope's blessing because William was expected to depose the Anglo-Saxon Archbishop of Canterbury and introduce ecclesiastical reforms. Before William could sail, the king of Norway invaded northern England. King Harold hurried north and defeated the Norwegian invaders at Stamford Bridge. William landed before Harold could return to defend the coast. The Normans destroyed the Anglo-Saxon army and killed Harold at the Battle of Hastings.

On Christmas Day, 1066, William was crowned king. William then suppressed local rebellions. He took lands from those who resisted him, and gave them to his followers to hold in return for their military service to him. to emphasize the legitimacy of his crown, William confirmed the laws of Edward the Confessors and retained all the powers of the Anglo-Saxon monarch. He levied Danegeld, the only national tax on landed property in all of Europe at that time. At Salisbury in 1086, he made all the landholders, even the vassals of his barons, swear allegiance directly to him as king.

William was devout, firm in purpose, and unchanging in gaining his ends. His greatest monument is the Domesday Book, an exhaustive survey of the land, the principal landholders, the farm population, and the material and financial resources of his realm.

The descendants of the Normans became the ruling class in England. for a time, they kept themselves aloof from the Anglo-Saxons and treated them as conquered people. But as the years went by the Normans and the Anglo-Saxons intermarried. The two races, which even in the beginning were similar, blended into one.

The Normans were a race of conquerors, with a genius for law and government, and they ruled England with great ability. In addition, English language, literature, and architecture owe much to the Normans. At first the Normans spoke French. Later the Norman French blended with the Germanic tongue of the Anglo-Saxons and became English.

ABOUT OUR ANCESTORS

The coat of arms illustrated with the ravens for a charge, gives a clue to the derivation of the name Corbin. It may reasonably be supposed to be from the French word "corbeau", a raven. It has been suggested, however, that Corbis or Corbilo, towns of France, may have been responsible for the name. Corbilo, now St. Hazaire, was founded by the Thoenicans, and it was in its harbor that Crassus, by Caesar's order, built the fleet by which , in 56 B.C., Brutus routed the Venetians. At the close of the fourth century Corbilo was occupied by the Saxons.

Variants of the name are many, as witness the following: Corbyn, Corbyne, Corbinne, Corban, Corben, Corbins, Corbis, Corby, Corbe, Corbee, Corbison.

Battle Abbey Roll, which gives the names of those who were with William the conqueror at the Battle of Hastings, mentions the Corbin name four times. The family were undertenants until about 1154, when they became possessed of large estates through marriage. There are many Corbins in France at the present time, which helps us out with the theory that the family is of French origin.

Henry Corbin, a Virginia colonist about 1654, was a burgess from Lancaster County, and in 1663 he was one of the "gentlemen of the council to devise a means of redress for the excessive planting of tobacco in Virginia." The conference between this commission and a similar one, appointed by Calvert from Maryland met on May 12, 1663, at Maj. Isaac Allerton's Wicomico.

Henry Corbin married before he left England, and at the early age of 16, Alice Eltonhead, who was probably younger than her bridegroom. Alice was a sister of the dashing cavalier, William Eltonhead.

Gavin Corbin, son of Henry and Alice, was a Burgess and president of the council. He married Katherine, daughter of Ralph Warmely of Middlesex, Va., whose widow, Agatha, married Sir Henry Chicheley. Warmeley's Creek was familiar to the continental troops at the siege of Yorktown.

Richard, son of Gavin, used his influence to procure George Washington, in 1752, a commission as lieutenant colonel in the militia.

Henry Corbin, colonist, was a son of Thomas and Winifred Corbin of Warwick. Winifred was daughter of Gavin Grosvenor, also of Warwick. Henry settled in Stratton Major, King and Queen County, afterward purchasing land in Lancaster, Westmoreland and Middlesex Counties.

The New England forebear and the first Corbin to come to America, was Clement Corbin, who in 1656, bought land in Boston. He married Doreas Buckminster, and they had eight children. One son, Jabez, has the title "lieutenant". Another son, John, was a soldier in King Phillip's war in 1675. His brother James, called a man of tremendous energy and great ability, was one of the founders of Woodstock, Conn.

Moses Corbin was another early colonist. Born in England, he was living at Whitehall, New York before the revolution. His son, Moses Jr., married Polly Cook of Hartford, New York.

Asabel Corbin, great-grandson of Clement Corbin, was in the "Lexington Alarm". He married Jerusha Morse of Sturbridge, Mass. James Corbin of the fifth generation from Clement was also a soldier in the Continental Army, and of the Mass. branch. In 1790 he moved to Newport, NH. He married Lois Kibbe, daughter of Capt. Charles Kibbe.

In the Rhode Island Historical Society is a record of those who took part in the expedition against Canada in 1746. Among the names are those of Isaac, Jabez, and Stephen Corbin.

In New York City is a historic site preserved to the memory of Margaret Corbin, who followed her husband, John Corbin, up from Bucks County Pennsylvania, and fought by his side. When he fell before the fire of the British, she seized the cannon rammer and continued to fire the gun until she was wounded.

The Kentucky pioneer was Rawley Corbin, born in Virginia. Rawley was the son of Thomas Corbin, born about 1729. Thomas was married about 1750 to Elizabeth Scott.

I am a decendent of Calvin Corbin. He is my great grand father. I have a Corbin family Bible, a story written by Mary Naomi Vogelgesang (his wife) about the family. One of his children was Sadie Alice Corbin (my grandmother). They had four other children. Sadie married Elmer Eugene Williams. My mother was Dorothy Williams.

Have you proven the birth, marriage and death? Do you have copies of any of those records?

Did anyone fight in the Rev War (such as William Corbin who was born 1754 and married 1778)?

I am willing to exchange information, if you are.

I grew up in Ohio and live in SC now.

Calvin Corbin was born in Franklin County near Dublin, O May 28, 1845. Departed this life March 13, 1929 aged 83 years, 2 months and 15 days. [He] was one of a family of eleven children, six of his brothers and one sister having preceded him to the great beyond. (Nearly all of his life was given to farming and was deeply in love with tilling of the soil and his home).

Oct. 11, 1876 he united in marriage to Mary Naomi Vogelgesang, to this union was born four daughters and one son, and five grandchildren. The names of these children are Mrs. J. B. Lamme of Delaware, Mrs. E. E. Williams of Powell, Mrs. H. B. Dixon of Powell, Miss. Benigna Nina and Charles William at home. The grandchildren—Edith, Mabel, James Harold and Doritha [Dorothy] Williams and Emma Jane Lamme.

The father's death being the first broken link in this home loving family circle. They fully realize the rift in the ties that has bound them together in such loving and tender affection so long will extend beyond the grave into and throughout eternity and they will ever look forward into that future life to a happy family reunion with him who has gone on before.

THE LIFE OF MARY NAOMI VOGELGSANG CORBIN

I was born September 30, 1849, in the little village of Dublin, Ohio, just 46 years after Ohio came into the Union in March, 1803 (Encyclopedia of Ohio p.101). I was the oldest daughter of Sarah Jane Fry Vogelgsang and Charles Vogelgsang. My father who was born May 15, 1808, came to Dublin as a young man from Germany to seek a better way of life. At the time he left Germany there was famine and a very poor economy (The German Americans, p.46-47). He brought all his worldly possessions in a wooden chest that is still in our family, and I hope that my youngest grandchild who is expected in January will inherit and cherish it as I do. My mother was born on January 31, 1828. I don't know a lot about her except that she was raised by John Sells, one of the founders of Dublin. He was a friend of the Wyandot Indian Chief, Leatherlips. Because Leatherlips was a friend of the white man, his own people were suspicious of him and accused him of witchcraft. His own tribesmen sentenced him to die and when John Sells learned about it, he offered to buy Leatherlips' release with his horse which was worth $300. Alas, they did not accept Sell's offer and Leatherlips did die by a tomahawk crashed into his head by one of his own people. But I digress and you'll just have to excuse an old lady on her 70th birthday.

That reminds me, did you know that Dublin almost became the Capital of Ohio? In 1810 the first General Assembly Commission chosen to pick a site for the capital recommended a tract of land owned by John and Peter Sells as being the most eligible, but that was rather quickly rejected and in 1812 the territory directly across from Franklinton won out (Yesterday's Columbus, p.10).

As I said before I am the oldest child in my family. I have a sister, Nina, who is a milliner, and my sister, Sarah, is a school teacher, graduating from the College of Wooster.

THE LIFE OF MARY NAOMI
VOGELGSANG CORBIN

Speaking of colleges, Ohio is noted for the number and variety of its colleges established by 1900 (Ohio and Its People p. 193). There have been 22 colleges established in Ohio in just the 70 years that I've lived (Encyclopedia of Ohio, pp. 127-134). But there I go getting side-tracked again. I also have a sister, Myra, the only other one of us girls who married. And then there is the youngest, our only brother, Emmanuel. Our mother died at the age of 59 on April 2, 1887, and Father a year later on April 18, 1888 at the age of 80. When I was a little girl, I slept in a trundle bed and was once bit by a rat on my right hand. That's when I became left-handed.

Well, I did meet Mr. Calvin Corbin and we were married on October 10, 1876, at The Christian Church in Dublin where my father, Charles, was a deacon. Let's see, that makes us married about 43 years, doesn't it, Cal? At the time we were married, most people lived on farms, and we were no different. We raised chickens and cows and had a big garden. Every Friday I went out to the chicken house and swept the dirt floor. I got pretty attached to my Leghorns and called them "girls." I did the usual housework and things that go along with rearing five children, worked in the garden, milked the cows, made butter, and of course canned as much as I could of what we grew in our garden. When I canned, I used tins and sealing wax. By this time we lived in Powell, and Cal and I would hitch up the horse and buggy and take our eggs and milk to our customers in North Columbus. We'd leave before daybreak. In 1885 Cal went to Franklin, Nebraska, where his brother, Acarah or Cary as the family has always called him, had a farm. I remember he wrote how fertile the land was out there, like the river bottom land in these parts. He found 80 acres of land that we could rent or 160 acres we could buy for $500 that was close to the school, but with four little children the idea of moving that far away from Ohio was just more than I could deal with. He stayed out there for about a year but didn't have his own team of horses and work was hard to come by.

Now, let me tell you about all my children. Emma May was born September 29, 1877. She became a teacher and taught in Powell but mostly in Ostrander where for 14 years she taught in the primary room preparing her students for high school. She married a widower, John Lamme, on August 1, 1918. He has two boys who Emma taught in school, Emerald and Carroll, and now they are expecting one of their own. She bought some land adjoining ours in Powell after she started teaching. She never would have been able to do that if Ohio hadn't passed a law in 1887 that allowed women to control their own property (Encyclopedia of Ohio, pp. 127-134). It surely was a big help to us. Sadie Alice was born on July 28, 1879. She married Elmer Williams, and they have blessed us with four grandchildren--- Edith Eugenia, Mable Ada, James Harold, and Dorothy May. Clara was born January 28, 1882, and she married Bert Dixon. They don't have any children. Benigna Nina was born July 28, 1884. We've always called her Bennie. She had spinal meningitis when she was a child and has always been our frail one. Since she never married, she lives with us. Our only son, Charles William, was born on March 2, 1887.

The year I was born Zachary Taylor was the President, and there have been 16 men elected President since then, and I haven't been allowed to vote for any of them. But Congress has just passed the 19th Amendment giving women the right to vote with Ohio becoming the fifth state to ratify it, and I will be voting in the presidential election next year (Ohio and Its People, p. 352)! In my lifetime six of those presidents came from Ohio--- Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, and William Taft (Ohio, p. 153).

THE LIFE OF MARY NAOMI VOGELGSANG CORBIN

In my lifetime I have seen many technologies come about even though we have been too poor to enjoy any of them personally. For example Alexander Graham Bell patented the telephone in 1876; Thomas A. Edison invented the phonograph in 1877, and in 1879 he demonstrated the incandescent bulb. The Wright brothers from Dayton, Ohio, achieved the first successful flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903 (Book of Chronologies).

I've seen my share of war in my lifetime. When I was just twelve years old, the Civil War began in 1861. My family had never owned slaves and didn't believe in slavery. On the other hand, Cal's family had been slave owners. So had we been married at that time, I expect there would have been some lively discussions in our household with regard to that issue. In 1898 the Spanish-American War began, and 1916 saw the beginning of World War I (Encyclopedia of Ohio, pp. 127-134).

One of the things I enjoy doing is reading. I've enjoyed Uncle Tom's Cabin by Harriet Beecher Stowe just to name one. If I could give just one word of advice it would be to read as much as possible when you are young because if your eyesight begins to fail as mine has with old age, you may not be able to enjoy it. Reading is a wonderful way to learn about other places and about all kinds of people. It can be an adventure.

I am a very optimistic person, and I hope I've been able to pass that on to my children. My girls tell me I'm a woman ahead of my times. That's not such a bad way to be remembered.

THE LIFE OF
EMMA JANE LAMME DUNHAM
JANUARY 21, 1920
BORN AT OSTRANDER, OHIO, DELAWARE COUNTY

Dad was a farm implement dealer and sold Chevrolet automobiles earlier. His name was John Bowen Lamme, and he was born September 8, 1877, in Union County, Ohio. He died July 8, 1939, in Marengo, Ohio, Morrow County. He was first married to Annabelle Murphy Lamme who died and is buried in Watkins Cemetery in Union County, Ohio. I have two half brothers, Emerald Ford (Buck) and Carrol Bliss (Curly), and my dad was their father. My mother, Emma May Corbin, taught both of them in a one-room school at Ostrander where she taught for 14 years and that is how my parents met. They were married August 1, 1918. Mother was born September 29, 1877 in Franklin County, Ohio. Her parents were Sarah Jane Vogelgsang and Calvin Corbin.

When I started to school in 1926, my brother Buck was almost through college at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio. An interesting aside is that he played football with my oldest daughter, Marcia's, best friend Sue Murray Seifried's father, Clyde Murray, who she met when she lived in Naperville, Illinois.

Going to Delaware to basketball games was something I really enjoyed. On cold nights a soap stone would be heated in the oven for keeping our feet warm in the car. Our car had "side-curtains with "ising glass" for windows. These would be removed in the summer and put on in case of rain. During the football season the band marching down the main street (Sandusky) was a Saturday afternoon treat. Buck was recognized in football, basketball and baseball and some of his friends would come to our house on weekends and that was exciting for they all seemed so big and noisy to a little girl.

A fire caused almost all the businesses to burn down shortly before I started to school in Ostrander. Water from town pumps was carried to save a nearby house, and I can still see in my memory the water-soaked quilts on the roof that were kept wet to save it. My dad's business was one that was gone. Very little was saved.

On my first day of school my mother became the teacher for the first and second grade class because the regular teacher's father had died that morning. Married women were not allowed to teach at that time but since she had taught for so many years she was allowed to take over for the day.

I attended third grade at West Building in Delaware and rode the school bus. This was a good year even though it was during the depression. Getting The Weekly Reader was something to which I looked forward. I took some piano lessons at this time. My parents gave the teacher milk and eggs in exchange for the lessons. Later on my piano teacher was the music teacher when I went to school at Powell.

We returned to Ostrander after having moved to Westerville for part of my fourth grade year. My folks had some cows even though we lived in town, and I had a milk route. One of the customers was the doctor's wife who gave me piano lessons in exchange for part of it. The piano was at an aunt's house who lived across the street. She napped while other friends practiced. They were ready to play when my time to practice came so I did not get far with my piano career.

My Grandmother Corbin and her daughter, my Aunt Bennie (Benigna) had to leave the farm at Powell and since my mother had owned part of the land, we moved there and I went to school in Powell for four years. Going to Delaware on Saturday afternoons was the big outing of the week. We went there with cream to be tested and sold, and then we could buy a few groceries and some gas. I could walk around in Woolworth's and wish but there were never many purchases made in those years.

THE LIFE OF

A dog, Patty, came by which was my first pet, though, I played with kittens when I'd visit Grandma Corbin. I even dressed them up in doll clothes.

At around ten years of age my mother had me write to my Grandma for she would be so busy, and I've like to write letters since. Having two cents for a stamp was the hard part.

Unexpectedly, a lady from Columbus came by with a realtor and wanted to buy our place because she liked the big trees in front of the house. That is why and how my parents bought a larger farm near Marengo, Ohio, in Morrow County in May, 1934. There is where I lived during my high school years. I learned to drive a team of horses when hay was made and put in the large haymow. My dad was trying to teach me how to drive the team and because of that he did not get the hay placed right. When we got to the barn, the wagon was on an incline, and the hay and I slid off with me getting well covered with hay. It scared me to pieces even though I could see daylight, and I yelled a lot. I did not have to help with that again, but I did drive the horses other summers.

In high school I played some basketball but never made the team. I was in the second typing class for the school which was quite an opportunity for there was quite an array of various makes of old typewriters. I attempted to play the clarinet and tried to tell the music teacher it was the instrument and not me for I could play the scale on my girlfriend's (practiced in the furnace room). That ended my music career outside of choir. I was President of the Junior Class and Editor of the yearbook my senior year, though, the Superintendent did most of it. The Junior-Senior Banquet was held at the Marengo Auditorium, and then we went to Columbus to a movie at the Ohio Theatre which was a first for a class to be allowed to do. We could take dates to that so Howard Dunham escorted me, and Ruth McCombs and Harry Siegfried went with us. Ruth was a classmate, and she and I had also been special friends in fourth grad at Westerville. She came to Marengo to school our Junior year. Howard and Harry had been friends since ninth grade at Marengo.

The senior class play was Jane Eyre, and we had to pay a royalty to present it which had never been done before. I had a fun part as Adele.

The dietitian for Monnett and Austin Girls Dormitories at Ohio Wesleyan had been a neighbor in Ostrander so I wrote to her about a job for the school year 1938-39, and I got it. I lived in Monnett Hall, had a roommate who worked in the kitchen, but she stayed only occasionally. I worked in the dining rooms of Monnett and Austin Halls on the days others were off. Six workers lived in Monnett and two in Austin, and we visited each other in the evenings, doing embroidery work and listening to the radio. There was a tunnel we could go through to get from one dorm to the other. It was "spooky" because even though there were lights, they weren't very bright. I made 15 cents per hour, got room and board, was allowed 50 cents worth of laundry, and uniforms were furnished and laundered. Most of the time I had Saturday and Sunday off and would go home to Marengo. During spring vacation some of us worked at Stuyvesant Hall cleaning the girls' rooms. We did have to be in by 11:00 for the doors would be locked for the students at that time. Some of the students became friendly with us because they worked in the dining rooms and knew us. They would ask us to let them in if they were not back in time.

My dad died in 1939 and since Howard had helped out with the dairy work during some of Dad's illness, it was best that he continue on after his death. We got married at the parsonage of Trinity Methodist Church in Mt. Gilead, Ohio, wit Rev. E. Eugene Rush performing the ceremony. Our friends, Ruth McCombs and Harry Siegfried were out attendants. We went to Mansfield to Howard's folks for our dinner that evening. They lived on N. McElroy Rd. That was August 9, 1939.

In September my mother, Emma Lamme, went to Delaware to work in the kitchen for the girls who lived in the dormitories of Monnett and Austin Halls at Ohio Wesleyan University. We lived at the farm, and Howard's brother, Kenneth, cam to live with us so that he could finish his senior year of school at Marengo. The boys' folks had moved to Mansfield that spring.

We did not have electricity and consequently no radio. The men hunted for their diversion, and also it helped to have some of the game to eat and to sell for the fur. Not much money was spent on food. Sometimes we traded eggs for necessities with a traveling grocery in a truck from Cardington. Playing cards with friends and in the summer going to Marengo on Saturday nights where we visited with friends constituted our entertainment. That is what most people did so we were not any different.

Soon after we married a lot of our friends came to the house and took us to Mt. Gilead expecting to have Howard wheel me down the main street in a Wheelbarrow, but by that time it was past midnight and therefore Sunday. Some of the fellows got fined for that and I did not get a ride. It was the custom to have candy to treat those who "belled" us but getting "the law" involved took the fun our of the evening so we had a lot of candy left for few came back to the house. It was the last "belling" of that nature in Mt. Gilead so I've been told. I forgot to mention that this did not take place until those involved were sure the newly weds were in and asleep.

We moved to Mansfield in February, and Howard got a job at the steel mill, this being more than a year after we were married and our first daughter, Marcia Kay was born on December 23, 1940. We lived there until the spring of 1943 and then moved to the country near Shennadoah (route 13 north of Mansfield). By then our second daughter had been born on February 20, 1943. That spring both girls had whooping cough and we had a sign put on our house advising everyone we were under quarantine. This was put on by the Richland County Health Department, and I think it was on the house for six weeks. During this time everyone was learning how to prepare for blackouts in case of war. It was scary and serious. We raised some baby chicks in what was called Mother Nature's Incubator which was outside in the yard. A bad rain started one night before Howard went to work, and he and I got the chicks in the house and put them in the bedroom we shared with the girls. It was a big room for at one time it had been two rooms. A stovepipe came up through the room and into the chimney, and I was always afraid of fire while we lived there.

EMMA JANE LAMME DUNHAM

BORN AT OSTRANDER, OHIO, DELAWARE COUNTY

No one slept well that night. Apparently there were rats in the walls of the house and we could hear them. I was afraid they would gnaw their way into the bedroom but they didn't.

We moved to Ganges in the fall of 1943 where we became active in the Grange and had many good times going to meetings, attending cake walks and other special events.

A friend who had been a high school classmate and now lived in Berea, Sally Crissinger Weyrick, and her daughter came for a visit because her husband, Jay, had been called to the service and was in the Seabees. While she was visiting, Howard got his orders to report for active service, too. We got in touch with her dad, Emmet Crissinger, in Marengo as he had a "double" house which Sally was going to move into. We had him keep the other side so the girls and I could be there. Sally and I had a door between our kitchens. If we desired we could spend the evenings with each other and still have our kids in bed. By then she had her second daughter. Howard was inducted into the Army in May. He went to Fort Benjamin Harrison and to Camp Livingston in Alexandria, Louisiana.

There were two mail deliveries each day at that time, and all of us who had husbands in the service made it to be there both times. We even had mail on Christmas Day but do not believe any went out on the rural routes.

Sally's dad was a mail carrier and since parts were so hard to get he sometimes used my 1939 Plymouth, and he also used Sally's car. He took me on the 40-mile mail route to help me learn to drive. I went to Mt. Gilead and a patrolman from Mansfield gave me a driving test. It was quite a while before I ventured to Mansfield with the girls since there was a lot of shifting involved.

Howard came home on furlough in November, 1944, and then went to Fr. Riley, Kansas. He had become ill so did not leave when the other fellows did so instead of going to Japan like they did, he went to Camp Lee, Virginia and from there to Germany. His folk, the girls and I went to a hotel there and stayed overnight. He would soon be shipping out and we couldn't stay. A car hit us while in the mountains on our way to Camp Lee. It knocked out the electrical system so we drove by moonlight until we came to a town where we parked behind a building until daylight. We later learned it was one of the buildings in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Prior to this, the last of July Howard's brother, Bob, sister-in-law, Oneta and nephew, Junior (Carl), and brother, Chuck, and I all went to Alexandria, Louisiana for a weekend.

We gathered up gas stamps from any folks able to buy gas to get there for it was rationed. This was quite an experience; none of us had much money and the tires were not the best. We had to get it fixed or at least another one in Arkansas, and the old gentleman who was loafing there said he'd lived out at Springmill near Mansfield at one time.

Howard was in the Army fourteen months. During that time the church was the source of the social life of Marcia, Janet and myself. We lived in Marengo for several years after his return and our children Richard Alan, Ronald Lee, and Beverly Jean were all born there. Richard died at eight months and is buried in Rivercliff Cemetery in Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

We moved to Mansfield in 1951, and our youngest, Brenda Ruth was born there. All of our children graduated from Madison Local High School. The older girls, Marcia and Janet, attended Marengo School for a few years, but the rest received all of their education in the Madison school system.

Marcia went to National College in Kansas City, Missouri, which is now St. Paul's School of Theology. She took her training as a medical technologist at Menorah Hospital in Kansas City and is now employed in a hospital near Chicago, Illinois, where she now lives. Janet went to Ohio State University for a quarter when there was first a campus in Mansfield. Classes were at Mansfield Senior High at that time. Ron went to the Tech School here and also to the Mansfield Business College. Beverly and Brenda took business courses and both held good jobs from their education at Madison.

I worked for fourteen years in the kitchen department at Madison South. During that time Howard had two heart surgeries at Cleveland Clinic following two heart attacks. He has also had two back surgeries, one at Mansfield General Hospital and the other at Cleveland Clinic. All of this caused him to have to take disability retirement and consequently, we have had to live at a much slower pace.

We made a few trips to Canada to visit our daughter, Bev and her family. two trips to Vermont to visit friends, to Kansas City when Marcia and her family lived there and to Chicago area when they moved there.

We lost a son-in-law, Ray Keithley, to cancer in 1977. Our grandson, Chris Keithley, learned he had cancer upon graduation from high school, but it is still in remission. He has gone to college in Wisconsin and Arizona. The younger grandson graduated from DePaul University in Chicago and plans to go into education. We have three other grandchildren going to school at Senior High, Malabar, and Ashland.

Activities have dwindled due to age and health but still I enjoy reading, writing to many friends, most from school days, and what social life I have revolves around church.

VOGELSANG GETS MEDAL.

Former Columbus Resident Cited For Bravery In Saving the Life of Submarine Attache.

Walter L. Vogelsang, formerly of 637 Dennison avenue, now a ship's cook in the United States navy, has been awarded a silver life saving medal of honor by the secretary of the treasury, for heroism in rescuing a drowning comrade, according to advices reaching the naval recruiting station in the federal building, Monday.

Vogelsang, the son of Emory L. Vogelsang, Hilliards, was returning to his ship, the submarine S-26, which was moored at the San Diego, Calif., docks, on the evening of November 30, 1926, when he saw W. T. McFarland, a chief torpedoman attached to the submarine S-9, fall into the water as he crossed the narrow gangplank from the dock to his boat. In falling, McFarland struck his head against the plank and was rendered unconscious.

"At great and imminent peril to himself, Vogelsang dived overboard into the confined space between the ship and the dock in which McFarland, unconscious, was sinking," the official report states. "Although a much smaller man than McFarland, who weighed 200 pounds, Vogelsang seized the drowning man, swam to the side of the S-9 and grasping a sea ladder, held him above the water until shipmates responded to his cries for assistance."

Vogelsang is at present stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, where presentation of the medal was made last week, in presence of his two sisters, Miss Mabel and Miss Mary Vogelsang and assembled recruits and spectators. He enlisted in Columbus in 1919.

Some family notes of Corbin history:

Bloomdale, Oh.

Rilla Price was Calvin's sister who lived in Findlay area. Think they were Mr. & Mrs. H. H. Price. Their children were: Mrs. William Biggs
William Price
Mrs. Charles Richard

Children of Mrs. C. O. Richard were: Gerald
Effie Rae

Children of Rilla & H. H. Price: Dimmis----think her married name was McCullough but am not positive & the name may not be spelled correctly.

Her daughter was: Mary McCampbell. (She was a public school music teacher & she also taught piano in 1928 area at Delaware, Ohio.)

Her children:

Jim --college professor & I think at Kent State (Ohio) at one time
Doris Mary Jo

Doris & I were in 3rd. grade at West Bldg., Delaware, Oh. & Jim was in 6th & Mary Jo either in 1st or 2nd. & we lived rather close together. Last time I saw Jim was at his folks home on West William ST. in Fall of 1938 when I worked at Delaware.

Another sister of Cal's was: Mat Hall. Her children were:

Ray Orpha
Earl Viola They lived in Findlay Area

I have cards sent to my mother, Emma Corbin Lamme, from cousins:

Leonie Gordon
Leroy Corbin Gordon but do not know who the parents were. Leonie's card postmarked 1908 & his 1910 They could have been husband & wife. That's a mistake I'm most sure.

Parents of Calvin:

*W. T. Corbin died Feb. 18, 1869 48 yrs., 10 mo. & 2 days.
*Kitty Ann Bishop Corbin born: Jan. 1, 1822

The story and Aunt Henrietta tells about George Van Gundy's mother and father is that they were to be married and he was killed in a railroad accident. It was said that he had the marriage license in his pocket. While doing research, I have come across where they applied for a license in Franklin Co. There is a license in Franklin Co. when she married Andrew Feathers.

(Van Family Reunion, 8-1-1993 from Aunt Henrietta.) Fran Davis also tells of the same story.

Generation No. 3

4. GEORGE³ VAN GUNDY (ELIZABETH JANE² CORBIN, WILLIAM¹)^{49,50} was born April 13, 1854 in Columbus, Ohio, and died May 29, 1922 in Delaware, Ohio. He married CLARINDA JANE KELLEY January 31, 1875 in Delaware, Ohio⁵¹. She was born December 19, 1857 in Delaware, Ohio⁵², and died March 30, 1936 in Osborn, Greene Co., Ohio⁵².

Notes for GEORGE VAN GUNDY:

Van Gundy Family Reunion, 8-1-1993. Stories from Aunt Henrietta and picture of the two of them is from Fran Davis.

This is some information I got when I visited with Aunt Henrietta & Aunt Leona after the reunion of 1984:

Grandpa Van Gundy (George Van Gundy) was an orphan. He mother wasn't married when he was born. He was an only child and raised on Army Camp on West Broad St., Camp Chase in Columbus, Ohio.

George & Clarinda Jane lived in a log cabin on Rt. 42 near Bellpoint.

Grandpa & Grandma Van Gundy lived in a brick house on Curtis St.

Clarinda whistled and that got on George's nerves. George cussed, so they made a pact and said neither would do it anymore. It worked and neither did.

(As told to Marie by Jean V.G. Jones 8/5/95)

George broke his collarbone at the White Sulfur quarry carrying a 20 ft. piece of steel out of the pit. He drilled. George and Clarinda lived on McKinley Ave. near San Marquerita not far from Dublin, Ohio. (As told to Marie by Donald V.G. 8/3/95)

Dear Richard,

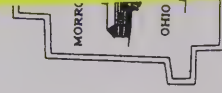

Here in Ohio our birth records weren't kept till 1867. So I can't get a birth record before then. The only proff is the 1850 census which lists him with his father and mother. It says they were in Westfield Township, Morrow County, Ohio. I even checked the delayed birth records but he wasn't in them.

Sorry I couldn't help you. So I'm returning your check.

This may be one of the strangest requests you have received. My father, Paul Mark Converse was born on March 10, 1913 and he and my mother were married in Newport, KY on July 23, 1933. When I recently received a copy of their marriage certificate it stated that my father had been divorced. I did not know he had been previously married. When I raised this question to two different individuals they both stated that they recalled that he had previously been married. One person further stated that his parents, Arley and Dicie Converse had his marriage annulled because he was too young.

I would like to request a search for the divorce/annulment of Paul Mark Converse's first marriage. The family resided in Delaware at 112 Pennsylvania Ave for many years. According to the 1930 Delaware City Directory my father and his parents were living at the 112 Pennsylvania address. At that time my father would have been 17 years old.

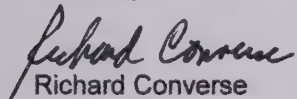

The annulment would have had to occur prior to July 1933 and perhaps after 1930.

Case # 11137

I have tried to give as much background as I have. Hopefully you can find the divorce decree or annulment papers. Additionally, I hope it would show his wife's name, the date of the annulment and where the marriage took place.

Please advise the cost for this information and I will immediately send the stipulated amount.

Sincerely,

Richard Converse
